

Welcome to Oneida

WELCOME TO THE CITY OF ONEIDA

The City of Oneida, NY is located in Madison County, halfway between Syracuse to its west, and Utica to its east, with beautiful Oneida Lake just 5 miles north. Oneida is a unique community with tree lined streets, sprawling parks and playgrounds, and convenient shopping. Available housing includes everything from wonderful old 19th century Victorians, to condominiums, to the house of your choice in a variety of new developments.

Oneida offers an excellent school system as shown through our consistently high rates of graduation. This comes about through our highly trained educational staff and a host of dedicated parents and volunteers, who strive for academic excellence and future success. The City also boasts a fine public library and many other services.

What makes Oneida most unique is its people. Their energy and sense of community have sparked a blossoming arts program, Memorial Day Parade, Hops Festival, Historical Craft Days, Farmers' Market and a first-rate summer Music in the Park series for year-round entertainment.

From our stately Victorians to our state-of-the-art medical facilities, which include a Hospital, and numerous healthcare and dental providers located throughout the City, Oneida is ready to cover your needs in the 21st century and beyond! Be part of the future...Explore Oneida now!

BRIEF HISTORY OF ONEIDA

Present day Oneida was once a wilderness area inhabited solely by the Oneida Indians until the early 1800's. They are members of the Haudenosaunee, also known as the Six Nations or Iroquois Confederacy. Haudenosaunee means "people of the longhouse." and The Oneida are known as the "people of the standing stone." The Oneidas sided with the colonists during the Revolutionary War, yet this did not prevent their gradual displacement by white settlers in the decades following the war.

In 1818, one small store was built along an Indian trail by a man called Van Epps. Following this first "business venture," more settlers eventually moved into the area. In the 1930's, the State built a feeder through the present city site to provide water for the new canal system from Oneida Creek. This enabled canal boats to ship freight to town.

A man named Sands Higinbotham would prove to be a major force in Oneida's growth. A clever businessman, he would have a great deal of influence in the area. The Oneida Depot was built and owned by him. The first railroad, later known as the New York Central, wanted to be built through the area in 1839. To obtain a right-of-way across Higinbotham's land, the railroad agreed that every train would stop at the Depot. The home he built in Oneida, Cottage Lawn, is now home to the Madison County Historical Society.

Higinbotham took advantage of such a financial opportunity and built a hotel and restaurant at the rest stop. The increased income and activity led to the construction of additional hotels and businesses. These transportation arteries allowed local farmers to ship their goods to markets more easily. Business had begun with Oneida providing a home for the manufacture of furniture, caskets, carriages, cigars, and silver. A trading center soon developed.

The Oneida Community began in 1848 as a perfectionist religious communal society started by John Humphrey Noyes. The members of the community produced various items, eventually including silverware for their own use and for sale to the outside world. The Community was reorganized as a joint-stock manufacturing company (Oneida Limited) in 1881. The headquarters of the Community was a few miles south of the old Oneida Depot but was included in the boundaries of the new city.

Before the Civil War, Oneida had obtained many attributes of a stable community, such as schools, churches, a post office, newspaper, and a bank. The three decades following the war brought more modern conveniences, such as gaslights, telephones, a water supply, street cars, electricity, and sewers.

Both the construction of the Erie Canal feeder and the railroad stop led to the incorporation of the Village of Oneida on June 20, 1848. The village was part of the town of Lenox. Years of friction among different sections of the large town led to the establishment of a new town of Oneida in 1896. This town, in turn, was chartered as the city of Oneida in 1901.

Two more railroads followed the New York Central, and Oneida maintained its place as a manufacturing and trading center throughout the first half of the twentieth century. The city provided substantial quantities of material and personnel during both World Wars.

Since the early 1960's, sadly, many of the city's manufacturing plants closed or moved away, and many local farm sites were converted to shopping centers, housing developments and other uses. Much of the retail business had shifted from downtown to the Route 5 corridor.

Even though many residents now commute to jobs in and around Syracuse and Utica, Oneida is an employment center of Madison County. It also draws people from the surrounding towns for shopping, healthcare, and financial services. The products of Oneida Limited (currently Oneida Manufacturing) are internationally famous. The Oneida Indian Nation is also making their presence felt again. They have established several local businesses including Turning Stone, a casino and hotel complex that has several restaurants and world class entertainment just a few minutes away in neighboring Verona.

There are a number of National Register of Historic Places located around the city including the Oneida Armory, post office, Mount Hope Reservoir, Main-Broad-Grove Streets Historic District, the aforementioned Cottage Lawn and Oneida Community Mansion House. Cottage Lawn and the Mansion House both have extraordinary tours. Check their websites for more information.

This brief history is only the beginning of Oneida's story. Our city and the surrounding area have a unique and rich history that we encourage you to visit our local landmarks, city hall and the library to find out more information.

MADISON TRANSIT SYSTEM

Madison Transit System

The Planning Department oversees the Madison Transit System operated by Birnie Bus. Buses are wheelchair accessible. Though limited in scope and frequency, this service will provide options for some of the most heavily traveled areas of the County, in addition to some of the outlying villages and hamlets as well. Questions about this service or requests for additional information can be obtained by contacting Birnie Bus at 315-824-1260 or Madison County at 315-366-2376.

Mobility Management

Madison County has a Mobility Management program that is operated by the Madison County Rural Health Council. They provide a wide range of resources for connecting those who need rides with transportation options in the community.
